

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

Bulletin of Recent Publications of The University of Chicago Press

1913

AGENTS

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY, New York

THE CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS, London and Edinburgh

TH. STAUFFER, Leipzig

THE MARUZEN-KABUSHIKI-KAISHA, Tokyo, Osaka, and Kyoto

Bulletin of Recent Publications of The University of Chicago Press

The Courts, the Constitution, and Parties. Studies in Constitutional History and Politics. By Andrew C. McLaughlin, Professor of History in the University of Chicago.

308 pages, 12mo, cloth; $1.50, postpaid $1.63

A volume of peculiar interest at this time, when the courts and political parties are subject to general criticism. The discussion is especially significant as coming from a lifelong student of constitutional questions, whose work at the University of Michigan, the Carnegie Institution of Washington, and as head of the Department of History in the University of Chicago, is so widely known. The point of view is historical. Though the articles are scientific they are directed to the reader who is interested in public affairs rather than to the professional student. The work consists of five papers, the first of which discusses the power of a court to declare a law unconstitutional. Two of the papers deal with the growth and essential character of political parties, and are followed by one on the history of differing theories of the federal Union. The work concludes with a discussion of the written constitution in some of its historical aspects, taking up the origin of these documents and the problems of their maintenance and interpretation in the development of the modern popular state.

The Mechanistic Conception of Life. Biological Essays by Jacques Loeb, Head of the Department of Experimental Biology, Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

238 pages, 12mo, cloth; $1.50, postpaid $1.65

The achievements of Professor Jacques Loeb in the field of experimental biology have made him so widely known as to insure any book of his a large circle of readers. His experimental work at the universities of Chicago and California, as well as in his present position, gives this volume an especial significance.

In his latest work, The Mechanistic Conception of Life, Professor Loeb presents many of the current problems in biology, and discusses the question whether the phenomena of life can be explained by physical and chemical laws. He finds it possible to control by physical or chemical means not merely the processes of reproduction, but also the conduct of animals with reference to environment.

The New York Medical Journal. The profession, as well as everyone interested in biology, will thank the author and the publishers for collecting these essays and placing them before the reading public.

The Chicago Tribune. It is refreshing to contemplate the wonderful exactitude, clearness, honesty, and unanswerable logic of Dr. Loeb.

Heredity and Eugenics. By John M. Coulter, William E. Castle, Edward M. East, William L. Tower, and Charles B. Davenport.

312 pages, 8vo, cloth; $2.50, postpaid $2.70

Leading investigators, representing the University of Chicago, Harvard University, and the Carnegie Institution of Washington, have contributed to this work, in which great care has been taken by each contributor to make clear to the general reader the present position of evolution, experimental results in heredity in connection with both plants and animals, the enormous value of the practical application of these laws in breeding, and human eugenics. The volume is profusely illustrated.

The Nation, New York. "Heredity and Eugenics" may be heartily recommended to readers seeking, as beginners, to get in touch with the discussion of these subjects. . . . In most of the lectures there is an admirable reserve, not to say skepticism, in the treatment of large questions which the public is often misled to regard as already and finally settled.

Railway Economics. A Collective Catalogue of Books in Fourteen American Libraries. Prepared by the Bureau of Railway Economics, Washington, D.C.

450 pages, 8vo, cloth; $3.00, postpaid $3.28

Much of the literature relating to railways is widely scattered. The student of railway transportation finds it impossible to secure access to any all-embracing sources of information in any one of even the largest general libraries.

In the present work the Bureau of Railway Economics has undertaken to list the works relating to the economics of railway transportation that are catalogued in thirteen of the principal libraries of this country, together with those in its own collection.

The volume can fairly lay claim to being a representative bibliography in the field of railway economics.

It is confidently believed that the work will prove valuable to all interested in the literature of railway transportation, and particularly to the economist and practical railroad man.

The Evening Post, New York. Of all these invaluable aids to the student which the librarians of the country are producing, this is the most exhaustive and workmanlike of any that has been issued in the economic field.

American Permian Vertebrates. By Samuel Wendell Williston, Professor of Paleontology in the University of Chicago.

152 pages, 39 plates, 8vo, cloth; $2.50, postpaid $2.68

This work comprises a series of monographic studies with briefer notes and descriptions of new or little-known amphibians and reptiles from the Permian deposits of Texas and New Mexico. The material upon which these studies are based was for the most part collected during recent years by field parties from the University of Chicago. The book is offered as a contribution to knowledge on the subject of ancient reptiles and amphibians, with such summaries and definitions—based chiefly on American forms—as our present knowledge permits. The work is illustrated by the author.

Athenaeum. The paleontologist will welcome the work as a solid contribution to our knowledge of a fauna which is of exceptional interest to the student of evolution, inasmuch as it includes forms that help to bridge over some of the differences between reptiles and amphibians.

Morphology of Gymnosperms. By John M. Coulter, Professor of Botany, and Charles J. Chamberlain, Associate Professor of Botany, in the University of Chicago.

470 pages, 462 illustrations, 8vo, cloth; $4.00, postpaid $4.22

This work is a revised and enlarged edition of the book brought out by Professors Coulter and Chamberlain in 1901. Each of the seven great groups is here presented in detail, and a final chapter discusses the problem of phylogeny and points out the evolutionary tendencies. The extinct groups, notably the primitive "seed-ferns," are now included for the first time; and vascular anatomy is fully recognized as a morphological subject of first importance. The entire presentation is thoroughly and systematically organized and arranged with a view to the greatest possible clearness. The illustrations are numerous and in large part original.

Nature. The book is an invaluable record, admirably illustrated, of our present knowledge of the older type of seed-plants.

The Historicity of Jesus. A criticism of the contention that Jesus never lived, a statement of the evidence for his existence, an estimate of his relation to Christianity. By Shirley Jackson Case, Assistant Professor of New Testament Interpretation in the University of Chicago.

360 pages, 12mo, cloth; $1.50, postpaid $1.62

Did Jesus ever live, or is he a mythical personage like the deities of Greece and Rome? is to many people a somewhat startling question. But in recent years his actual existence has been vigorously questioned, and the subject is being given wide notice and discussion. The negative opinion has found supporters in America, England, Holland, France, and Germany. To present a complete and unprejudiced statement of the evidence for Jesus' actual existence is the aim of the author of The Historicity of Jesus.

The Nation, New York. It is creditable to American scholarship that the first survey of the entire debate should have been made by a representative of an American divinity school, and that the treatment of the question is adequate and fair in the presentation of the arguments on both sides, and marked by discernment both of the underlying principles and the consequences involved for the religious life.

Sociological Study of the Bible, Showing the Development of the Idea of God in Relation to History. By Louis Wallis, formerly Instructor in Sociology in the Ohio State University.

One volume, bound in cloth; $1.50, postpaid $1.68

This book is written on the basis of the modern scientific interpretation of the Bible; but it approaches Bible-study from a new point of view, using the sociological method of research. The ancient Hebrew nation is treated as a social group originating at the point of contact between Amorite city-states and Israelite clans from the Arabian desert. The great struggle within the nation was primarily between the legal usages of the constituent races. This conflict found expression very slowly in terms of antagonism between the gods of the Israelites and the Amorites. Mr. Wallis' papers on the subject have been appearing for some years in the American Journal of Sociology; but they are entirely recast and revised for book publication.

The Dial. A significant and closely reasoned work.

The Scotsman. Whether or not one agrees with Mr. Wallis, the originality and freshness of his views and the marked ability with which they are propounded cannot be denied.

The Minister and the Boy. By Allan Hoben, Associate Professor of Homiletics in the Divinity School of the University of Chicago.

Illustrated, 180 pages, 12mo, cloth; $1.00, postpaid $1.10

From the first chapter on "The Call of Boyhood," through one on "The Approach to Boyhood," the author leads us by suggestion and informing principle to realize the remarkable opportunity afforded by the raw material "boy," on which the minister may work. Later chapters on play and vocational choice show how to train the boy for citizenship, how responsive he is to the right sort of impetus, and how his religious life may indirectly, and even unconsciously, be stimulated by the proper appeal to his manly instincts, while furnishing him with a normal outlet for his natural enthusiasm. The book is practical throughout, and each chapter is filled with concrete suggestions which are vitalized by the author's actual experience as a basis.

Mr. Hoben's book is not only enlightening and entertaining, but is wonderfully practical. It should be in the hands of every probation officer, pastor, teacher, and parent.—JUDGE BEN B. LINDSEY.

Scientific Management in the Churches. By Shailer Mathews, Dean of the Divinity School in the University of Chicago.

66 pages, 12mo, cloth; 50 cents, postpaid 55 cents

Why not apply "scientific management" to the varied activities of the church? is the question asked by Dr. Shailer Mathews in his book. The crying need for it is almost startlingly portrayed, and the broad lines of the plan—the adaptation of "scientific management" to an institution such as the church—are inspiring in their suggestiveness.

The book is of the utmost value to all who belong to the active organization in their church—or who are, in the language of the author, "spiritual workmen."

The Independent. A small volume containing matter of large practical value.

The Continent. Dean Mathews' treatment of the subject is practical, and his suggestions are exceedingly useful.

The Ethics of the Old Testament. By Hinckley G. Mitchell, Professor of Hebrew and Old Testament Exegesis in Tufts College.

420 pages, 12mo, cloth; $2.00, postpaid $2.15

The aim of the author is to present a faithful and, as nearly as possible within the limits of a manual, a comprehensive view of the development of ethical ideas among the Hebrew nation. To this end he takes the books, or parts of books, of the Old Testament in the order of their origin, and discusses their teaching, whether direct or indirect, on the duties that men owe to themselves, their families, and the larger world of which they are a part. This is the first volume to be issued in the series of "Handbooks of Ethics and Religion" edited by Shailer Mathews. Congregationalist and Christian World. It goes far to popularize the results of modern Biblical scholarship, and in general is within the comprehension of ordinary Bible students.

Old Testament Story. Teacher's Manual and Pupil's Notebook. By Charles H. Corbett.

Manual, $1.00, postpaid $1.09; Notebook, 50 cents, postpaid 59 cents

This latest addition to the Constructive Bible Studies, covering the period from Moses to Solomon, is designed for teachers of pupils from ten to twelve years of age corresponding to grades five and six of the public school. The pupil's equipment consists of a loose-leaf notebook containing a page for each lesson. It includes pictures, maps, outlines, paper models, and an occasional written lesson, thereby providing considerable opportunity for handwork.

The Churchman, New York. Teachers will find much that is helpful in Mr. Corbett's manual.

Unity, Chicago. The unique and really valuable part of the Corbett work is his Pupil's Notebook that accompanies it.

American Poems. Selected and Edited with Illustrative and Explanatory Notes and a Bibliography. By Walter C. Bronson, Litt.D., Professor of English Literature in Brown University.

680 pages, 12mo, cloth; $1.50, postpaid $1.68

The book offers a most carefully chosen and well-balanced presentation of the poetic works of Americans, covering the entire period of our history. For the teacher as well as the student the value of the work is greatly enhanced by the comprehensive Notes, Bibliography, and Indices. It is believed that the book will have the wide popularity of Professor Bronson's earlier collection, English Poems, which has been adopted by all leading American colleges.

The Dial. The resources of the special collections of Brown University have supplied the editor with the best authorities for accurate texts, and have made possible the widest range of selections.

San Francisco Call. A notably successful attempt to produce a useful book, against which the charge of injudicious inclusions and exclusions commonly urged against similar works cannot be made.

English Poems. Selected and Edited with Illustrative and Explanatory Notes and Bibliographies. By Walter C. Bronson, Litt. D., Professor of English Literature in Brown University.

- I. OLD ENGLISH AND MIDDLE ENGLISH PERIODS
436 pages, 12mo, cloth; School edition, $1.00, postpaid $1.15
Library edition, $1.50, postpaid $1.65
- II. THE ELIZABETHAN AGE AND THE PURITAN PERIOD
550 pages, 12mo, cloth; School edition, $1.00, postpaid $1.15
Library edition, $1.50, postpaid $1.66
- III. THE RESTORATION AND THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY
541 pages, 12mo, cloth; School edition, $1.00, postpaid $1.15
Library edition, $1.50, postpaid $1.66
- IV. THE NINETEENTH CENTURY
635 pages, 12mo, cloth; School edition, $1.00, postpaid $1.15
Library edition, $1.50, postpaid $1.68

This series of four volumes is intended primarily to afford college classes and general readers a convenient, inexpensive, and scholarly collection of the most important English poetry.

The selections, so far as possible, are complete poems. The notes, though concisely expressed, occupy nearly a hundred pages in each volume. They contain explanations of words and allusions which the average college student might find obscure; statements by the poet or his friends that throw light on the poem; the poet's theory of poetry when this can be given in his own words; quotations which reveal his literary relationships or his methods of work; and extracts from contemporary criticism to show how the poet was received by his own generation. The last-mentioned feature has contributed much to the remarkable success of the series, which is the best general collection of English poetry that has yet been offered at a reasonable price.

The Journal of Education. These volumes are of supreme importance because of their completeness as to material and the scholarly way in which the poems have been annotated.

Questions on Shakespeare. By Albert H. Tolman, Associate Professor of English Literature in the University of Chicago.

The exercises on each play follow a logical order, embracing general questions, questions on individual acts and scenes, character-study, the relation of the play to its sources, and questions concerning the text or meaning.

The questions upon the following comedies are being issued in pamphlet form: A Midsummer-Night's Dream, Much Ado about Nothing, I Henry IV, II Henry IV, The Merchant of Venice, As You Like It, Twelfth Night, The Tempest.

Price 15 cents each, postpaid 17 cents each

Two bound volumes have appeared in this series as follows:

Questions on Shakespeare Part I, Introduction; 75 cents, postpaid 81 cents.

Questions on Shakespeare Part II, contains exercises on the three parts of Henry VI, Richard III, Love's Labour's Lost, The Comedy of Errors, The Two Gentlemen of Verona, A Midsummer-Night's Dream, and all the Poems with the exception of the Sonnets. $1.00, postpaid $1.09.

Dr. Horace Howard Furness, Editor of the New Variorum Shakespeare. It is fairly astonishing what a deal of information in all departments of Shakespearian study you have compiled, and set forth alluringly—no small consideration where young people are concerned—within so small a space.

The Elementary Course in English. By James Fleming Hosic, Ph.M., Head of the Department of English in the Chicago Teachers College.

152 pages, 16mo, cloth; 75 cents, postpaid 82 cents

The constantly growing use of this book offers convincing testimony to its value as a practical guide for teachers, supervisors, and parents. It presents in outline a working theory of elementary English, with selected references to the recent literature of the subject. In this way the book is especially adapted to individual study and to group discussions in normal schools, teachers' reading circles, teachers' institutes, and parents' associations. The book contains also a suggestive course of study in composition, grammar, word-study, reading, and literature. Definite standards of attainment in these subjects are indicated for each year. Graded lists of material include stories for reading and for telling, poems for study and memorizing, supplementary reading-books classified by subjects, and selected literary studies for higher grades. The Appendix contains a list of books to be read to the children, a list of verse collections, and a list of prose collections. The author's long connection with the Department of English in the Chicago Teachers College qualifies him to speak with authority on the subject. The book has been endorsed by the Course of Study, the official publication of the Chicago public schools.

Educational Review. A good book. . . . The thoughtful and studious teacher of elementary English will find it full of helpful suggestions and advice.

Agricultural Education in the Public Schools. By Benjamin M. Davis, Professor of Agricultural Education in Miami University.

170 pages, 8vo, cloth; $1.00, postpaid $1.12

In this book Professor Benjamin M. Davis has attacked the problem of the co-ordination of all the agencies now at work on the problem of agricultural education. He has performed a service which will be appreciated by all who have any large knowledge of the problem and of the difficulties which the movement encounters. He has made an effort to canvass the whole field and to give a detailed exposition of the forces employed in building up a rational course of agricultural education. He has presented more fully than anyone else the materials which define the problem and which make it possible for the teacher to meet it intelligently. The annotated bibliography at the end of the book will do much to make the best material available for anyone desiring to get hold of this material through independent study. The book serves, therefore, as a general introduction to the study of agricultural education.

Nature. Professor Davis may be congratulated on a most valuable and thoughtful expert contribution to the literature of his subject.

A Descriptive Catalogue of Manuscripts in the Libraries of the University of Chicago. Prepared by Edgar Johnson Goodspeed, Associate Professor of Biblical and Patristic Greek and Assistant Director of Haskell Oriental Museum.

140 pages, 8vo, cloth; $1.00, postpaid $1.11

This catalogue containing the description of ninety-nine manuscripts in the possession of the University of Chicago was published in connection with the dedication of the Harper

Memorial Library, June 11, 1912. At that time the manuscripts were transferred to permanent quarters in the Manuscript Room of the new Library. Not all the manuscripts of the University are here included, the Greek papyri in Haskell Oriental Museum and the East Indian and other oriental manuscripts being reserved for separate treatment. Most of the manuscripts described in the catalogue came to the University with the Berlin Collection in 1891. The languages of the manuscripts include Latin, Greek, Italian, Spanish, French, German, English, Dutch, Icelandic, Hebrew, and Arabic.

Outlines of Economics, Developed in a Series of Problems. By Members of the Department of Political Economy of the University of Chicago.

160 pages, interleaved, 12mo, cloth; $1.00, postpaid $1.13

This book is an attempt on the part of its authors to make some advances in the direction of improving the current methods of teaching the elementary course in economics. The ideals which have shaped the character of the book are: (1) A belief that the elementary course in economics offers exceptional opportunities for training in thinking and reasoning—a sort of training the importance of which can hardly be exaggerated. The inductive-problem method here used is believed to be the one best adapted to accomplish this end. (2) A desire to connect the theoretical principles of economics with the actual facts and with problems of the business world, and to induce the student to apply his knowledge of that world to the subject of study.

The result is a careful, analytical syllabus of the subjects usually covered in the introductory course, accompanied by some 1,200 questions and problems, designed: (a) to afford set problems for written work; (b) to guide the student in his reading, while fostering independent thinking; (c) to give direction to classroom discussion. It is expected that the Outlines will be used in connection with some textbook.

Nation. In their Outlines of Economics, Developed in a Series of Problems, three members of the Department of Political Economy in the University of Chicago have performed with remarkable thoroughness and grasp a task of great difficulty. The book consists in the main of sets of searching questions, dealing successively with every phase of the great subject, the order being determined by the attempt of the authors "not only to link economic theory with descriptive material, but in a measure to build the theory up out of the familiar events of economic life"; an attempt in which, we believe, they have succeeded as completely as the case admits.

Pragmatism and Its Critics. By Addison Webster Moore, Professor of Philosophy in the University of Chicago.

296 pages, 12mo, cloth; $1.25, postpaid $1.36

The general discussion of the philosophical movement known as "pragmatism" has awakened so spirited a controversy that the present volume is especially timely and significant. Professor Moore lays stress on three phases of the question: (1) the historical background of the movement; (2) its relation to the conception of evolution; (3) the social character of pragmatic doctrines. Pragmatism and Its Critics is a good example of the modern type of philosophical exposition. It is in a free, conversational style, is profound without being difficult, and simple without sacrificing accuracy.

Philosophical Review. No student is likely to read these chapters without receiving valuable help. The last chapter of this group, "How Ideas Work," is especially noteworthy as containing one of the most attractive and forcible presentations of the pragmatist theory of truth and error.

The Theology of Schleiermacher. By George Cross, Professor of Christian Theology in the Newton Theological Institution.

356 pages, 12mo, cloth; $1.50, postpaid $1.65

Professor Cross's book attempts to introduce the English-speaking student to Schleiermacher himself. It consists principally of a condensed "thought-translation" of his greatest work, The Christian Faith. The exposition is introduced by the interesting story of Schleiermacher's life, with emphasis on his religious experience. This is accompanied by a luminous account of the changes in Protestantism that necessitated a reconstruction of its doctrines. The work closes with a critical estimate of Schleiermacher's contribution to the solution of present religious problems, which in the judgment of scholars will stand as an extremely valuable portion of the book. Taken together, the translation, the analysis, and the critical estimate reveal Schleiermacher as a pioneer in modern religious thought.

The Christian World, London. This work is as timely as it is able. It is remarkable that, considering the enormous influence of Schleiermacher on modern theology, the English-speaking world has hitherto had such meager opportunity of studying the man and his teaching.

PUBLICATIONS IN SERIES

Publications of the National Society for the Study of Education (Formerly the National Herbart Society).

The annual reports (each issued in two parts) contain important papers and discussions on pedagogical subjects, concerning which detailed information will be furnished on request. The Yearbooks for 1895-99, for 1902-6, and for 1907-11 have been bound together, the price of each volume being $5.00, postpaid $5.30.

Publications of the American Sociological Society.

Six volumes of Papers and Proceedings have been issued. Price per volume, $1.50, postage extra.

The School Review Monographs.

This is a series of educational papers recently begun under the supervision of the editors of the School Review. The first number, Research within the Field of Education, Its Organization and Encouragement, will be sent postpaid for 53 cents; the second number, embracing articles on various educational subjects, for 56 cents. Both have been prepared by the Society of College Teachers of Education.

Yearbooks of the Superintendents' and Principals' Association of Northern Illinois.

Seven Yearbooks have been issued. Price 50 cents each, postage extra.

Publications of the Western Economic Society.

Vol. I, Part I, of the Proceedings, Reciprocity with Canada, has been issued. Price 75 cents, postpaid 83 cents.

Philosophic Studies (Edited by James Hayden Tufts).

Three numbers have been issued. Price 50 cents each, postpaid 54 cents.

Papers of the Bibliographical Society of America.

Six volumes have been published. Detailed list on request.

The Bulletin of the Bibliographical Society of America.

Published at intervals by the Society. $1.00 per volume, postage extra.

Historical and Linguistic Studies in Literature Related to the New Testament.

FIRST SERIES: TEXTS (4 numbers published).

SECOND SERIES: STUDIES (9 numbers published).

Proceedings of the Baptist Congress.

The Proceedings of the last meeting will be sent postpaid for 58 cents. Many of the back numbers can also be supplied.

Annual Tables of Constants and Numerical Data, Chemical, Physical, and Technological. Issued by an International Commission Appointed by the Seventh International Congress of Applied Chemistry.

We are distributing agents for this publication in the United States. Full information on request.

PERIODICALS

The Biblical World. SHAILER MATHEWS, Editor in Chief. Published monthly, with illustrations. Subscription price, $2.00 a year; single copies, 25 cents; foreign postage, 68 cents.

The School Review. Edited by the Department of Education in the University of Chicago. Published monthly, except in July and August. Subscription price, $1.50 a year; single copies, 20 cents; foreign postage, 52 cents.

The Elementary School Teacher. Edited by the Faculty of the Elementary School of the University of Chicago. Published monthly, except in July and August, with illustrations. Subscription price, $1.50 a year; single copies, 20 cents; foreign postage 46 cents.

The Botanical Gazette. Edited by JOHN M. COULTER. Published monthly, with illustrations. Subscription price, $7.00 a year; single copies, 75 cents; foreign postage, 84 cents.

The Journal of Geology. Edited by THOMAS C. CHAMBERLIN. Published semi-quarterly, with illustrations. Subscription price, $4.00 a year; single copies, 65 cents; foreign postage, 53 cents.

The Astrophysical Journal. Edited by GEORGE E. HALE, HENRY G. GALE, and EDWIN B. FROST. Published monthly, except in February and August, with illustrations. Subscription price, $5.00 a year; single copies, 65 cents; foreign postage, 62 cents.

The American Journal of Sociology. Edited by ALBION W. SMALL. Published bimonthly. Subscription price, $2.00 a year; single copies, 50 cents; foreign postage, 43 cents.

The Journal of Political Economy. Edited by the Faculty of Political Economy of the University of Chicago. Published monthly, except in August and September. Subscription price, $3.00 a year; single copies, 35 cents; foreign postage, 42 cents.

The American Journal of Theology. Edited by the Divinity Faculty of the University of Chicago. Published quarterly. Subscription price, $3.00 a year; single copies, $1.00; foreign postage, 41 cents.

The American Journal of Semitic Languages and Literatures. Edited by ROBERT FRANCIS HARPER. Published quarterly. Subscription price, $4.00 a year; single copies, $1.25; foreign postage, 26 cents.

Modern Philology. JOHN M. MANLY, Managing Editor. Published quarterly. Subscription price, $3.00 a year; single copies, $1.00; foreign postage, 41 cents.

The Classical Journal. FRANK J. MILLER, ARTHUR T. WALKER, and CHARLES D. ADAMS, Managing Editors. Published monthly, except in July, August, and September. Subscription price, $1.50 a year; single copies, 25 cents; foreign postage, 24 cents.

Classical Philology. PAUL SHOREY, Managing Editor. Published quarterly. Subscription price, $3.00 a year; single copies, $1.00; foreign postage, 23 cents.

The University of Chicago Magazine. Edited by a Board of Alumni. Published nine times a year. Subscription price, $1.50 a year; single copies, 20 cents; foreign postage, 27 cents.

Journal of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae. Published by the Association at the University of Chicago Press. Issued in January, March, April, and May of each year. Subscription price, $1.00 a year; single copies, 25 cents; foreign postage, 16 cents.

The English Journal. JAMES FLEMING HOSIC, Managing Editor. Published monthly, except in July and August, by the National Council of Teachers of English, at the University of Chicago Press. Subscription price, $2.50 a year; single copies, 30 cents; foreign postage, 45 cents.

Bibliography of Social Science. Edited by Dr. Hermann Beck, Berlin, and Dr. Charles Kinzbrunner, London, in co-operation with the Department of Political Economy in the University of Chicago. Published monthly. Annual subscription, $6.00. We are exclusive agents for the United States and Canada. Full information on combination rates with other journals on request. Complete sets of back numbers can be furnished at special rates.